Excerpt

"You think you can defy me, Anya?" Alexei's voice was low and dangerous, his eyes glinting with anger. "You think you can challenge my authority?"

Anya met his gaze defiantly. "I do," she said. "I will not be your puppet, Alexei. I will not be controlled by you."

Alexei's lips curled into a cruel smile. "We'll see about that," he said. "You underestimate me, Anya. I am the Prince of the Bratva. I can do whatever I want, whenever I want. And I want you."

Anya took a step back, her heart pounding in her chest. She knew that Alexei was capable of anything. But she refused to let him intimidate her. "I'm not afraid of you," she said.

Alexei's eyes narrowed. "You should be," he said. "Because I'm going to make you mine. And when I'm done with you, you'll be begging for my mercy."
