Prepare to be tantalized by "Killer Fudge," a delectable short story from the Callahan Garrity Mysteries series that will leave you craving more. Meet Callahan Garrity, a brilliant and unconventional private investigator who combines her sharp wit with a sweet obsession for fudge.

When a local confectionary shop becomes the scene of a puzzling crime, Callahan is drawn into a sweet and deadly confection. The victim, Mrs.

Marple, is found dead in her own candy store, a piece of half-eaten fudge clutched in her hand.

As Callahan investigates, she uncovers a cast of quirky characters, each with their own delicious secrets and motives. There's Mr. Tootsie, the charming but secretive candy vendor; Ms. Bonbon, the elderly gossip with a sweet tooth for information; and young Ricky Sprinkles, the clumsy but determined delivery boy.

With each bite of fudge, Callahan unravels a trail of clues that lead her closer to the killer. Along the way, she encounters sticky situations, humorous banter, and enough fudge to satisfy her insatiable craving.

But as the investigation thickens, Callahan discovers that the sugary façade hides a sinister plot that threatens to consume the town. With her trusty sidekick, a talking parrot named Professor Peachtree, Callahan must navigate a web of deceit and danger to uncover the truth.

In the end, it takes a combination of Callahan's analytical mind, a sprinkle of unexpected allies, and a decisive bite of fudge to expose the killer and bring justice to the sweet tooth of the town.
